

ANNUAL SEMINAR RECOGNISES SOUTH AFRICA'S LEADING KAIZEN PRACTITIONERS

Many of South Africa's most astute manufacturing companies will be recognised at the AIDC's annual Kaizen Seminar.

The seminar seeks to promote the KAIZEN body of knowledge and engage with the manufacturing sector at a national level towards World Class manufacturing excellence.

Kaizen, a Japanese word meaning "change for better", refers to any improvement, one-time or continuous, large or small, and has become inculcated as a manufacturing philosophy, which aims to eliminate waste in all systems of an organization through improving and standardizing activities.

The seminar gives opportunities to companies to understand the presented Kaizens of their peers, in a way which promotes learning.

Engineers from the AIDC, mandated by government to assist the automotive and manufacturing sector become more globally competitive, have facilitated kaizens in companies across the country for over a decade.

For more information about how the AIDCEC can support your company in making Kaizens, please contact Tawfeeq on 041 393 2100.
